The 27th Annual Linen Sale Our Greatest Event

Our 27th Annual Linen Sale which began Tuesday of this week is proving the most stupendous Sale this house has ever attempted. Every day this week up to the time this paper goes to press, our Linen Store has been crowded with buyers, all seemingly intent on securing their share of the special values we present for this occasion only. And every day there are some new features, some special values every morning during the sale.

Every home has a want list for something in Table Linens, Crashes, Towels, Napkins, or an Odd Cloth, etc. These sales are just the sort of place to supply the needs at a noteworthy price reduction. Saturday of this week will be a banner day for Linen values. We want to close the week with the greatest sales yet. We will have such special values as will make buying one of the most economical buying occasions of the year.

Bring your Linen List to the Fordyce Linen Sale on Saturday.

Dyball, Dr. Phelps Dyball and Miss Lucy Hartman came over from Youngstown in an automobile last Friday evening and gave Mrs. Mary Ogline a surprise party in honor of her birthday anniversary. The occasion was thoroughly enjoyed by all participants.

He was a freckled sort of a man, skin was a mix of a brown and a tan, hat didn't fit him, and clothes was too small—

Shoes not intended for him at all. Seemed to be mightily down on his luck, 'Settin' on top of the baggage truck. Down at the station, when Amos Gray sociably said: "It's some warmer today."

Stranger just stared at him, solemn and queer: "Hotter today. Can't you hear?"

Stranger kept on with his innocent stare, Amos turned round with a wonderin' air. Came on up street and told each one he met:

"Furrier down at the depot, I'll bet." So we went down; thought to talk with him some.

Find out his name, and perhaps where he's from.

Lutzen, the baker, tried German at German that sounded like English reversed. Stranger looked up with a shake of his head:

"He's not a German," was all Lutzen said.

Armand, the tailor, came down from his perch:

Tore off a lot of intelligent French; Stranger blinked slow, as though askin' us: "Now,

What is the meaning of all of this row?"

Pulster Suggs, who has traveled a lot, tried him with Spanish—went wide of the spot:

Turned on some Russian and Chinese and Jap—

Never got next to the freckled chap. Sent for Yon Yonson, the tumbering Swede:

He couldn't get the unknown fellow tread. Then came the teacher with Latin and Greek:

Stranger grinned on, like he never could speak.

Then we made signs till our fingers were numb—

Thought the poor fellow was possibly dumb. But he kept staring from one to the other:

Winking and blinking like he was perplexed. Till the train came, and he clambered aboard.

Amos Gray gasped as he left, and then roared:

"Stranger, confound it! I'd give my best shoes

If you could tell me what language you use!"

Stranger leaned down from the train pulling out:

"English, when I want to talk!" was his shout.

Not For Her.

"My wife hasn't any use for these newfangled notions that a woman should have equal rights with man," says the little man with the scary look in his eyes.

"Believes in the old fashioned order of things, does she?" smiles the other man.

"Well, I wouldn't exactly put it that way," replies Mr. Penhecker, "but she feels that if she accepted equality she would be sacrificing a good deal of her authority."

At the Circus.

"And now, ladies and gentlemen," said the lecturer, "you are about to witness the most thrilling spectacle ever presented in the arena. I would request that you kindly maintain silence and refrain from applauding until the act is concluded. Senor Reckless will now ride the man-eating automobile three times around the hippodrome track!"

Very Literary.

"They say your fiancée is very literary," remarks the friend of the young man who has become engaged.

"Well," is the thoughtful answer, "her name is Elizabeth; she wears Janice Meredith curls; she has a Dorothy Vernon temper, and she raises the Dickens if I fail to keep an engagement."

Advance of Science.

"My fee for the surgical operation, which is a very dangerous one," said the eminent expert, "will be $5,000."

"Five thousand dollars? Whew!" exclaimed the prospective victim.

"Why, four centuries ago the royal executioners hadn't the nerve to charge over $10 for their work."

Loose Screws.

Very often a screw hole gets so worn that the screw will not stay in. In such a case cut narrow strips of corn and fill the hole completely. Then force the screw in. This will make it as tight as if driven into an entirely new hole.

Wife's Privilege.

"That is the wife's privilege," remarked the West Ham Clerk to a man who complained that his wife nagged him.—London Globe.

CAREFUL DRIVING.

The automobile operated by Paul Waters will be looked after by Russ Calvin, leaving Canfield at 7:30 a. m. and 12:30 p. m. For service call phone 16. RAPID TRANSIT CO. YUCATAN RUINS ASIATIC.

Traveler Dioso's Theory—He Found a Similarity to Far Eastern Remains.

Arthur Dioso of London, author and traveler, returned after a two months' sojourn in Mexico, where he went to study the famous ruins in Yucatan.

"After a long research among the ruins," said Mr. Dioso, "I am more than convinced that the nation which built the structures now in ruins ages ago was of Asiatic origin, although it is scientifically impossible at this time to prove the assertion. Their language is a matter of record, but no person has been found as yet who can read it."

"Knowing the Far East as I do, I saw at once the similarity between the decaying architecture of the ruins and the architecture of the East. One is immediately struck with the same atmosphere of construction and relief, and these people, who were ancient when the Spaniards first landed, must have erected their homes and temples with the undying memories of ancient Asia."

"The same idea of Asiatic form is to be found among the ruins of the cliff dwellers in Arizona, which I also visited. What impressed me most of all on my trip was the grand canyon of the Colorado River in Arizona. It was one of the most inspiring sights that the world has to offer."

Banishing Night.

In assuming the presidency of the French Society of Civil Engineers recently, Monsieur Cornuau described the present state of the art and science of artificial illumination, with particular reference to the continued improvement of gas lights. Man has now so far advanced in his effort to banish night that in Paris, for example, the artificial illumination is estimated to be nearly one-tenth of the amount of sunlight. This approaches the amount of illumination, or solar origin, on the planet Saturn. Although we are now in the age of electricity, Monsieur Cornuau shows that the incandescent mantle, the acetylene lamp, and other inventions, cause a constant increase in the use of gas for illumination. One effect of the introduction of the electric light has been to bring about vast improvements in other methods of producing light, and man needs them all, for night on the earth will grow brighter and brighter as civilization advances.

Geology and Coal.

A European geologist calls attention to the practical bearing of recent geological studies of the construction of the Karpathian Mountains. It has hitherto been assumed that the coal-basin adjoining these mountains terminates at a fault along their edge, but Professor Uhlig shows that the coal must continue under the mountains, and that the proper points to sound for it may be determined simply by the character of the superposed layers. Instead of sounding through the Lower Cretaceous formation, as has been attempted, he points out that the places where the older Tertiary layer shows itself are those where the coal must lie nearest the surface. Recent soundings indicate the correctness of his conclusions.

Pocahontas and John Smith.

The pretty story of Smith's rescue from imminent death by Pocahontas when he was in the clutches of her redoubtable father, Powhatan, has been rather blown upon by later historians. It has been shown that Smith in his earliest narrative only mentions the princess incidentally as a child, and it was not until she came afterward to England and Smith wrote an account of her for the edification of the court that he described vividly how she carried the beating out of her own brains to save his. By that time the romantic Pocahontas had the metamorphosis into Mistress Rebecca Rolfe, wife of a Virginia settler of standing, and her portrait, with plumed hat, ruff and fan, has been duly handed down in this capacity.

Rooted in the Human Heart.

There is a smell in our native earth better than all the perfumes in the east. There is something in a mother, though never so angry, that the children will move naturally trust her than the studied civilities of strangers, let them be never so hospitable.—Lord Halifax.

8500 Revolutions Per Minute

HAT is the wonderful speed at which an IHC cream separator bowl turns. The rim of a six-inch bowl, running at separating speed, is traveling at the rate of nearly two and a half miles a minute, faster than the swiftest express train that ever ran. Such speed as this means strain on shafts, bearings, frame, in every part of a separator, such strain as can only be rendered harmless by the nicest adjustment of strength, flexibility, and quality of material and workmanship. The business of a cream separator is to skim the butterfat from whole milk, but to do this it must be made mechanically right, or it soon ceases to be useful as a separator. The machine that meets these conditions and sells at the right price, is an

IHC Cream Separator Dairymaid, Bluebell, or Lily

IHC separators have that carefulness of adjustment and balance of moving parts which make for durability and easy running.

There are points in the construction of IHC separators, such as the heavy phosphor bronze bushings, trouble-proof neck bearing, cut-away wings, dirt and milk-proof spiral gears, etc., which make IHC separators, beyond any doubt the best of all to buy. There are four convenient sizes of each style. Ask the local dealers who handle these machines for a demonstration. Get catalogues or full information from them or write

To Our Friends and Neighbors

You know us. You know we would not—that we could not afford to go back on our word. Nor can you afford to ignore this money-back-if-not-satisfied offer on this splendid laxative.

We honestly believe we have the best bowel remedy ever made—the most pleasant to take, most permanently beneficial laxative for relief from the miseries and dangers arising from constipation.

We wouldn't say this if we didn't believe it to be true. We wouldn't risk our reputation by making such statements did we not feel sure you would find them true.

Our faith is built both on the knowledge of what Rexall Orderlies are made of and on observation of very many severe cases in which they have proven their merit.

Try them at Our Risk

If they do not abundantly prove their merit with you also—if you are not entirely satisfied with them—we will refund your money—and we will do that on your mere word. We don't ask you to risk a penny. Isn't that fair?

Just let the bowels fail in properly doing their work—just let their action be delayed and incomplete and the entire system, and every other organ suffers. Wastes that should have been expelled remain to poison the system.

Headaches, biliousness, nervousness and other troubles, and serious ill effects are common when the bowels fail to act daily as nature intended. All this may be avoided, if you will accept our advice.

Rexall Orderlies

taste just like candy. They are soothing and easy in action. They do not cause griping, nausea, purging or excessive looseness. They tend to tone and strengthen intestinal nerves and muscles. They promptly relieve constipation, and help to permanently overcome it.

Rexall Orderlies promote better spirits and better health. In all of those things they are vastly superior to old-fashioned, harsh salts and other purgatives, which are not only unpleasant to take but which usually leave the bowels in worse condition than before. We particularly recommend Rexall Orderlies for children, aged and delicate persons.

Rexall Orderlies come in vest-pocket tin boxes. 12 tablets, 10¢; 36 tablets, 25¢; 80 tablets, 50¢.

CAUTION: Please bear in mind that Rexall Orderlies are not sold by all drug stores. You can buy Rexall Orderlies only at The Rexall Store.
